

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor,

Once again the Cambridge volunteers came through with flying colors. The Friends of the Library Craft show was a great success.

The Friends of the Library board and fabulous volunteers worked together to create something grand.

We truly appreciate the volunteer crew who worked the admission table and filled in wherever needed, The Cambridge High School Silver Cord volunteers who served lunch, the Lions Club for taking the time to set up and take down the floor mat, the lunch crew who served over 300 lunches, the bake sale crew who sold out four tables of home baked goods, the bakers in the community who filled those tables, the raffle crew who sold an abundance of tickets.

And, of course, we are grateful for the 95 artisans and crafters who filled up the booths and who enjoyed a successful day as more than 1,000 people got a great start on the Christmas shopping.

"This has been your best show ever," were words spoken by both shoppers and artisans and crafters.

All money received from admission, raffle tickets, bake sale, and lunches (approximately $10,000) will be matched by the Cambridge Foundation and go toward our exciting new library.

We, the board members of The Friends, feel so blessed to live in a community where volunteers work together to create such a well organized and fun event to benefit such a good cause.
