

Lots of laughs at the Friends of the Library Road Rally

Unbeatable. Kandis Murphy, Pat Rucks and Vickie Englestad (shown above) raced to victory in Kandis' 10-year old Toyota 4-Runner to become the winning team of the first-ever Road Rally and Scavenger Hunt sponsored by the Friends of the Cambridge Library.

Their winning score was based on a combination of best time, least miles covered, puzzles solved and scavenger items found.

Twelve cars competed in this touring event held on Saturday, Nov. 16 as a fundraiser for the new Cambridge library. All of the money will be matched by the Cambridge Foundation.

The route was 23 miles long and started and ended at the Sports Page Bar and Grill, which teamed up with the Friends to sponsor the rally.

Cars lined up in the parking lot and Joan Behm (shown below), director of the library, flagged each one for take-off at two-minute intervals.

Joan and husband Charlie also competed in the rally, winning a car air freshener as a prize for their "stinker" of a score.

Entrants had so much fun, and comments were so positive, that Friends hope to make the rally an annual event. Rally-Ho!
